ORDER DENYING PLAINTIFFS' MOTIONS TO EXCLUDE AND FOR SUMMARY
JUDGMENT AND GRANTING IN PART AND DENYING IN PART DEFENDANTS'
MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

I. INTRODUCTION

This matter comes before the Court on Plaintiffs' Motion to Exclude Richard Alldredge, ECF No. 106, Plaintiffs' Motion for Summary Judgment Re: Collateral Estoppel, ECF No. 108, and Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment, ECF No. 111. Plaintiffs Alexander, Ken, and Jo Anne Jones seek to exclude Defendants' statistician Richard Alldredge and ask the Court give preclusive effect to the Washington Supreme Court decision in State v. ANJ, 225 P.3d 956 (2010). Defendants Leroy Allison, Tim Snead, Deborah Kay More (the "County Commissioners"), their respective spouses, and Grant County (collectively, the "County Defendants") seek summary judgment on all of Plaintiffs remaining

1 claims. To date, Defendants Douglas Anderson and Kirsten Anderson
2 have not joined the County Defendants' motion or filed their own 3 dispositive motion. On February 4, 2014, the Court heard from the 4 parties and reserved ruling on the pending motions.

5 The Court, having reviewed the pleadings, legal authority, and 6 the arguments of counsel, is fully informed. For the reasons set 7 forth below, the Court denies Plaintiffs' Motion to Exclude, denies 8 Plaintiffs' Motion for Summary Judgment, and grants in part and denies 9 in part County Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment.

10 II. BACKGROUND

11 A. Factual History¹

12 On July 2, 2004, at twelve years of age, Plaintiff Alex Jones -- 13 the son of Plaintiffs Ken and Jo Anne Jones -- was charged with First 14 Degree Child Molestation in the Juvenile Division of Grant County 15 Superior Court.² Grant County public defender Douglas Anderson, an 16 independent contractor, was appointed to represent Alex. Mr. Anderson 17 had been under contract with Grant County to provide legal defense 18 services in the Juvenile Division of Grant County Superior Court since 19 December 2000. Pursuant to that contract, he was appointed by judges 20 of the Grant County Superior Court to represent minor defendants who 21 could not afford to hire their own attorney.

23 ¹ In ruling on the motion for summary judgment, the Court has considered the 24 facts and all reasonable inferences therefrom as contained in the submitted 25 affidavits, declarations, exhibits, and depositions, in the light most 26 favorable to the party opposing the motion. See Leslie v. Grupo ICA, 198
F.3d 1152, 1158 (9th Cir. 1999).

² Because all three Plaintiffs share a common surname (Jones), to avoid confusion, the Court refers to Plaintiffs Ken and Jo Anne Jones as Mr. and Mrs. Jones, respectively, and to Plaintiff Alexander Jones as Alex, which is the given name he uses in the Complaint. The Court intends no disrespect.

1 The Board of County Commissioners is the primary legislative and 2 executive authority for the county, with the authority and 3 responsibility to make and enforce all laws within the county. ECF 4 No. 136. Grant County passed two Resolutions 92-115-C and 97-29-CC to 5 set forth the standards for the delivery of legal services to indigent 6 juveniles.

7 Mr. Anderson represented Alex throughout the September 15, 2004 8 pretrial conference and entry of a guilty plea to the reduced charge 9 of Second Degree Child Molestation. After entering a guilty plea on 10 September 22, 2004, Alex hired a new lawyer in November 2004 and 11 within five weeks moved to withdraw his guilty plea. After the 12 Superior Court denied Alex's motion to withdraw his plea, he appealed.
13 The Washington Supreme Court in State v. ANJ, 168 Wash.2d 91 (2010)
14 reversed the Superior Court decision finding that Mr. Johnson had 15 rendered deficient assistance by failing to conduct an investigation 16 before proceeding to a guilty plea, and permitted Alex to withdraw his 17 plea based upon a finding the plea was involuntary due to 18 misinformation about the impact of a juvenile sex conviction.

19 B. Procedural History

20 Plaintiffs filed this action in Chelan County Superior Court on 21 March 5, 2012, alleging claims against the State of Washington and 22 Governor Christine O. Gregoire (collectively, the "State Defendants"), 23 the County Defendants, and Douglas and Kirsten Anderson, ECF No. 2, at 24 7-21. The Complaint asserts the following claims for relief:

- 1 (a) two claims against all Defendants for declaratory judgment,
2 pursuant to RCW 7.24.010 and 7.24.050 (First and Second 3 Claims);
- 4 (b) a claim against all Defendants for violating Mr. Jones's
5 rights under Article I, section 22 of the Washington
6 Constitution (Third Claim);
- 7 (c) one claim each against Defendants Gregoire, the County
8 Commissioners, Douglas Anderson, and Grant County, pursuant 9 to 42 U.S.C. § 1983, for violating Mr. Jones's Sixth 10 Amendment right to effective assistance of counsel (Fourth, 11 Fifth, Sixth, and Seventh Claims, respectively);
- 12 (d) two additional claims against Defendant Douglas Anderson, 13 one for professional negligence (Eighth Claim), and one for 14 breach of fiduciary duty (Ninth Claim);
- 15 (e) one claim against Defendants Grant County and the County 16 Commissioners for negligent hiring, supervision, and 17 retention (Tenth Claim);
- 18 (f) one claim against the County Commissioners and Defendant 19 Douglas Anderson for "concerted action," or civil 20 conspiracy (Eleventh Claim);
- 21 (g) one claim against the spouses of the County Commissioners 22 for community liability (Twelfth Claim); and
- 23 (h) one claim against all Defendants for injury to child, 24 pursuant to RCW 4.24.010 (Thirteenth Claim).

25 Defendants removed the case to this Court on May 4, 2012. ECF No. 1.

1 On June 26, 2012, the State Defendants moved for judgment on the 2 pleadings. ECF No. 17. On August 8, 2012, the Court granted the 3 State Defendants' motion and dismissed all claims against the State
4 Defendants. ECF Nos. 41 & 45 at 7 n.5. On July 10, 2012, the County 5 Defendants also moved for judgment on the pleadings. ECF No. 20. On 6 October 31, 2012, the Court denied the County Defendants' motion as to 7 Plaintiffs' Fifth, Seventh, and Thirteenth Claims, but granted the 8 motion as to Plaintiffs' First, Second, and Third Claims. ECF No. 45.
9 Accordingly, Plaintiffs' First, Second, and Third Claims were 10 dismissed as to the County Defendants. ECF No. 45. However, 11 Plaintiffs' First, Second, and Third Claims remained as to Defendants 12 Douglas and Kirsten Anderson. ECF No. 45 at 11 n.6. On April 8, 13 2013, Plaintiffs filed an Amended Complaint, which listed the First, 14 Second, and Third Claim as "[a]gainst all defendants" and as 15 "dismissed per ECF No. 41 & 45." ECF No. 85 at 10. The Amended 16 Complaint also withdrew Plaintiffs' Eighth, Ninth, and Tenth Claims.
17 ECF No. 85 at 13-14. Based upon the Courts' previous Orders and the 18 parties' Notice of To-Be-Adjudicated Claims, remaining before this 19 Court is Plaintiffs' Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eleventh, Twelfth, and 20 Thirteenth Claims.

21 III. PLAINTIFFS' MOTION TO EXCLUDE

22 A. Legal Standard

23 An expert witness may testify at trial if the expert's 24 "specialized knowledge will assist the trier of fact to understand the 25 evidence or to determine a fact in issue." Fed. R. Evid. 702. A 26 witness must be "qualified as an expert by knowledge, skill,

1 experience, training, or education" and may testify "if (1) the 2 testimony is based upon sufficient facts or data, (2) the testimony is 3 the product of reliable principles and methods, and (3) the witness 4 has applied the principles and methods reliably to the facts of the 5 case." Id.; see also Kumho Tire v. Carmichael, 526 U.S. 137, 141, 6 148-49 (1999). The "trial judge must ensure that any and all [expert] 7 testimony or evidence admitted is not only relevant, but reliable."
8 Daubert v. Merrell Dow Pharmaceuticals, Inc., 509 U.S. 579, 589
9 (1993). "Concerning the reliability of non-scientific testimony . . .
10 the Daubert factors (peer review, publication, potential error rate, 11 etc.) simply are not applicable to this kind of testimony, whose 12 reliability depends heavily on the knowledge and experience of the 13 expert, rather than the methodology or theory behind it." Hangarter 14 v. Provident Life & Accident Ins. Co., 373 F.3d 998, 1017 (9th Cir.
15 2004) (citations omitted). In such cases, the Court's gatekeeping 16 role under Daubert involves probing the expert's knowledge and 17 experience. See id. at 1018. "It is the proponent of the expert who 18 has the burden of proving admissibility." Lust v. Merrell Dow 19 Pharms., Inc., 89 F.3d 594, 598 (9th Cir. 1996). Admissibility of the 20 expert's proposed testimony must be established by a preponderance of 21 the evidence. See Daubert, 509 U.S. at 592 n. 10 (citation omitted).
22 "If the reviewing court decides the record is sufficient to determine 23 whether expert testimony is relevant and reliable, it may make such 24 findings. If it 'determines that evidence [would be inadmissible] at 25 trial and that the remaining, properly admitted evidence is 26 insufficient to constitute a submissible case[,] the reviewing court

1 may direct entry of judgment as a matter of law." Estate of Barabin
2 v. AstenJohnson, Inc., 10-36142, 2014 WL 129884 (9th Cir. Jan. 15, 3 2014) (quoting Weisgram v. Marley Co., 528 U.S. 440, 446-47 (2000)) 4 (alternation in original).

5 B. Analysis

6 Plaintiffs seek to exclude any testimony or evidence from 7 Defendants' expert statistician, Richard Alldredge. Mr. Alldredge is 8 offered in response to Plaintiffs' own expert statistician Mel Ott.
9 Plaintiffs do not challenge Alldredge's qualifications, nor do they 10 dispute that he relied upon sufficient data and used reliable methods.
11 Both experts, Mr. Ott and Mr. Alldredge used the same data source and 12 the same odds ratio analysis, Chi-Square Test, and Fisher's Exact 13 Test. The sole distinction between the two experts analysis is the 14 grouping of data for inclusion in their odds ratio analyses and the 15 opinions each reached based upon that analysis. Plaintiffs assert 16 that the selecting or grouping of data conducted by Mr. Alldredge 17 render his application in this case unreliable.

18 Here, the data and statistical methodology are uncontested.
19 Truly at issue is the meaning of different data points and the 20 reasoning for why certain data sets should be compared. The reasoning 21 for why different data sets were compared and its impact upon the 22 expert's opinion goes to the weight and credibility of those opinions 23 rather than their admissibility. See Bazemore v. Friday, 478 U.S.
24 385, 401 (1986) (Overturning the lower courts finding that the 25 regression analyses offered to prove discrimination were unacceptable
26 because they did not include all measurable variables, the Court

1 stated that "[n]ormally, failure to include variables will affect the 2 analysis' probativeness, not its admissibility."). Here, the dispute 3 goes to which data sets to use, which goes to probativeness not 4 reliability. The explanation by both experts as to why they choose 5 their respective data sets to compare and the means they place behind 6 those results will aid the jury in better understanding the issues in 7 this case. Ultimately, it is a question for the jury to decide which 8 approach is more credible. Accordingly, Plaintiffs' Motion to Exclude 9 is denied.

10 IV. MOTIONS FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

11 Both parties have filed a motion for summary judgment.
12 Plaintiffs ask that the state court's decision in State v. ANJ, 225 13 P.3d 956 (2010) be given "collateral estoppel effect" against all 14 Defendants. ECF No. 108. The County Defendants seek summary judgment 15 as to all of Plaintiffs' remaining claims as to the County and the 16 County Commissioners.

17 A. Legal Standard

18 Summary judgment is appropriate if the "movant shows that there 19 is no genuine dispute as to any material fact and the movant is 20 entitled to judgment as a matter of law." Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a).
21 Once a party has moved for summary judgment, the opposing party must 22 point to specific facts establishing that there is a genuine dispute 23 for trial. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 324 (1986). If 24 the nonmoving party fails to make such a showing for any of the 25 elements essential to its case for which it bears the burden of proof, 26 the trial court should grant the summary judgment motion. Id. at 322.

1 "When the moving party has carried its burden under Rule [56(a)], its 2 opponent must do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical 3 doubt as to the material facts. . . . [T]he nonmoving party must come 4 forward with 'specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for 5 trial.'" Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S.
6 574, 586-87 (1986) (internal citation omitted) (emphasis in original).
7 When considering a motion for summary judgment, the Court does not 8 weigh the evidence or assess credibility; instead, "the evidence of 9 the non-movant is to be believed, and all justifiable inferences are 10 to be drawn in his favor." Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S.
11 242, 255 (1986).

12 B. Plaintiffs' Motion for Summary Judgment Re: Collateral Estoppel

13 Plaintiffs seek to have the Washington Supreme Court's decision
14 in State v. ANJ, 225 P.3d 956 (2010) given "collateral estoppel 15 effect" against all Defendants. ECF No. 108. Specifically, 16 Plaintiffs seek a ruling that "Doug Anderson rendered ineffective 17 assistance of counsel, and deprived Alex Jones of his rights under the 18 Sixth Amendment" by 1) "failing to adequately investigate the charges 19 against Alex Jones," 2) "failing to establish a confidential 20 relationship with Alex Jones, independent of his parents," 3)
21 "misinforming Alex Jones regarding the consequences of a guilty plea," 22 and 4) "failing to ensure that Alex Jones understood the nature of the 23 charges against him," and that the "public defense contract between 24 Grant County and Doug Anderson was a cause of the foregoing 25 ineffective assistance of counsel . . . violations." ECF No. 108 at 26 2.

1 1. Collateral Estoppel

2 A federal court considering whether to apply issue preclusion
3 based on a prior state court judgment must look to state preclusion 4 law. McInnes v. California, 943 F.2d 1088, 1092-93 (9th Cir. 1991).
5 See also W. Coast Theater Corp. v. City of Portland, 897 F.2d 1519,
6 1525 (9th Cir. 1990) ("[A] federal court must give to a state court
7 judgment the same preclusive effect as would be given that judgment 8 under the law of the state in which the judgment was rendered.")
9 Accordingly, the Court looks to Washington's law of issue preclusion.

10 Under Washington law, issue preclusion or collateral estoppel 11 requires the party seeking preclusion to establish that:

12 (1) the issue decided in the earlier proceeding was 13 identical to the issue presented in the later proceeding, 14 (2) the earlier proceeding ended in a judgment on the 15 merits, (3) the party against whom collateral estoppel is 16 asserted was a party to, or in privity with a party to, the 17 earlier proceeding, and (4) application of collateral 18 estoppel does not work an injustice on the party against 19 whom it is applied.

20 Christensen v. Grant Cnty. Hosp. Dist. No. 1, 152 Wn.2d 299, 307
21 (2004). Collateral estoppel may be applied to preclude only issues 22 that were litigated and finally determined in the earlier proceeding, 23 and the party against whom it is asserted must have had a full and 24 fair opportunity to litigate the issue. Id. at 306. "The proponent 25 must provide the reviewing court with a sufficient record of the prior 26 litigation to facilitate such analysis." State v. Barnes, 932 P.2d 669, 678 (Wash.App. Div. 2 1997) (citing Beagles v. Seattle-First Nat'l Bank, 25 Wash. App. 925, 932 (1995). "Where it is not clear whether an issue was actually litigated, or if the judgment is

1 ambiguous or indefinite, application of collateral estoppel is not 2 proper." Id. (citing Mead v. Park Place Properties, 37 Wash. App.
3 403, 407 (1984)).

4 2. Analysis

5 Plaintiffs seek collateral estoppel against two separate groups
6 of Defendants, the County Defendants and the Anderson Defendants.
7 Accordingly, the Court evaluates each group in turn.

8 a. County Defendants

9 Plaintiffs seek collateral estoppel claiming the issue of 10 whether the contract was a cause of the ineffective assistance of 11 counsel violations was fully litigated in the Washington State Supreme 12 Court. However, it is not clear that this issue was directly 13 litigated and finally decided by the Supreme Court. While the opinion 14 states, "A.N.J. also argues the Grant County public defender contract 15 in place at the time created an incentive for attorneys not to 16 investigate their clients' cases or hire experts. We agree," the 17 opinion does not state the Court held that the contract between Grant 18 County and Anderson actually caused ineffective assistance. ANJ, 225 19 P.3d at 966. To the contrary, the Court limits its holding stating 20 "[h]owever, we hold that if a public defender contract requires the 21 defender to pay investigative, expert, and conflict counsel fees out 22 of the defender's fee, the contract may be considered as evidence of 23 ineffective assistance of counsel." Id. at 967 (emphasis added).
24 Accordingly, as to the issue of the contract causing a violation, it 25 is not clear that the issue was fully and fairly litigated below or 26 that it was reached on the merits. Accordingly, as the first and

1 second factors work against a finding of collateral estoppel as to the 2 County Defendants, the Court denies Plaintiffs motion as to the County
3 Defendants.

4 b. Anderson Defendants

5 Anderson was not a party to the state court criminal proceeding
6 and was not a party as the case was appealed. Accordingly, in order
7 for collateral estoppel to apply, Anderson would have to be in privity
8 with a party. Plaintiffs argue that privity is met because Anderson 9 was a witness in the underlying criminal case. Plaintiffs cite to the 10 passage in World Wide Video of Washington, Inc. v. City of Spokane, 11 125 Wash. App. 289, 306 (2005), that "[o]ne who was a witness in an 12 action, fully acquainted with its character and object and interested 13 in its results, is estopped by the judgment as fully as if he had been 14 a party." However, Plaintiffs fail to include in their brief the 15 subsequent sentence which states, "[i]f this interested witness could 16 have intervened but chose not to for tactical reasons, he or she 17 suffers no injustice from application of collateral estoppel." Id.
18 (citing Garcia v. Wilson, 820 P.2d 964, 966-67 (1991); Hackler v.
19 Hackler, 37 Wash. App. 791, 795 (1984)).

20 Here, while Anderson was a witness in the criminal proceeding, 21 testifying to assist his former client to withdraw his guilty plea, 22 there was no opportunity for Anderson to intervene in the action and 23 no evidence of some manipulation or tactical maneuvering on his part.
24 To the contrary, the Washington Supreme Court noted that:

25 [W]e do not mean to suggest any particular ethical 26 violation on [Anderson's] part. The record suggests Anderson believed he acted in the best interest of his

1 client which is evidence by his willingness to sign a 2 declaration detailing his inadequate performance in support of A.N.J.'s motion to withdraw his plea.

3 ANJ, 225 P.3d at 970 n.18. Accordingly, the Court finds application 4 of collateral estoppel as to the Anderson Defendants would work an 5 injustice upon Defendant Anderson.

6 For the foregoing reasons, the Court denies Plaintiffs' Motion
7 for Summary Judgment regarding collateral estoppel.

8 C. Grant County Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment

9 County Defendants move for summary judgment asserting that 10 Moneill liability cannot be demonstrated a matter of law, that the 11 Commissioners are entitled to either absolute-legislative immunity or 12 qualified immunity, that the community liability claims have no basis 13 in law, and that the state law derivative claim under RCW 4.24.010 14 does not state a cognizable claim.

15 1. Community Liability

16 Plaintiffs' Twelfth Claim asserts community liability against 17 the County Commissioners' spouses. Defendants argue this claim has no 18 basis in law. ECF No. 111. In response, Plaintiffs withdraw this 19 claim as to the spouses of the County Commissioners. ECF No. 125 at 2 20 n.1. Accordingly, the Court grants Defendants' motion as to community 21 liability, dismissing Plaintiffs' Twelves Claim as to the County 22 Defendants only.

23 2. Grant County

24 Defendants argue that the County cannot be liable under Section 25 1983 absent proof of a policy or custom that amounts to deliberate 26

1 indifference to Sixth Amendment rights and a showing that the policy 2 or custom was the moving force behind the claimed violations.

3 Section 1983 imposes two essential proof requirements upon a 4 claimant: (1) that a person acting under color of state law committed 5 the conduct at issue, and (2) that the conduct deprived the claimant 6 of some right, privilege, or immunity protected by the Constitution or 7 laws of the United States. Parratt v. Taylor, 451 U.S. 527, 535 8 (1981). A person deprives another "of a constitutional right, within 9 the meaning of section 1983, if he does an affirmative act, 10 participates in another's affirmative acts, or omits to perform an act 11 which he is legally required to do that causes the deprivation of 12 which [the plaintiff complains]." Johnson v. Duffy, 588 F.2d 740, 743
13 (9th Cir. 1978). The inquiry into causation must be individualized 14 and focus on the duties and responsibilities of each individual 15 defendant whose acts or omissions are alleged to have caused a 16 constitutional deprivation. See Rizzo v. Goode, 423 U.S. 362, 370-71
17 (1976). Liability for a violation will not arise from respondeat
18 superior liability. Monell v. Dep't of Social Servs., 436 U.S. 658, 19 690-92 (1978). A causal link between a person holding a supervisory 20 position and the claimed constitutional violation must be shown; vague 21 and conclusory allegations are insufficient. See Fayle v. Stapley, 22 607 F.2d 858, 862 (9th Cir. 1979); Ivey v. Bd. of Regents, 673 F.2d 23 266, 268 (9th Cir. 1982).

24 A government entity may not be held liable under 42 U.S.C. § 25 1983, unless a policy, practice, or custom of the entity can be shown 26 to be a moving force behind a violation of constitutional rights.

1 Monell v. Dep't of Soc. Servs. of the City of New York, 436 U.S. 658,
2 694 (1978). In order to establish liability for governmental entities
3 under Monell, a plaintiff must prove "(1) that [the plaintiff] 4 possessed a constitutional right of which [s]he was deprived; (2) that 5 the municipality had a policy; (3) that this policy amounts to 6 deliberate indifference to the plaintiff's constitutional right; and, 7 (4) that the policy is the moving force behind the constitutional 8 violation." Plumeau v. Sch. Dist. No. 40 Cnty. of Yamhill, 130 F.3d 9 432, 438 (9th Cir. 1997) (internal quotation marks and citation 10 omitted; alterations in original).

11 Here, Alex had a constitutional right to effective assistance of 12 counsel, and taking the County Regulations and the Contract most 13 favorably to Plaintiff, the County had a policy of providing indigent 14 defense through the type of contract at issue. Accordingly, the 15 parties dispute whether the policy was deliberately indifferent or the 16 moving force behind the violation.

17 Deliberate indifference occurs "when the need for more or 18 different action 'is so obvious, and the inadequacy [of the current 19 procedure] so likely to result in the violation of constitutional 20 rights, that the policymakers . . . can reasonably be said to have 21 been deliberately indifferent to the need.'" Oviatt By & Through 22 Waugh v. Pearce, 954 F.2d 1470, 1478 (9th Cir. 1992) (quoting City of 23 Canton, Ohio v. Harris, 489 U.S. 378, 390 (1989)).

24 County Defendants maintain that the terms of the contract
25 combined with the fact that these contract terms were not prohibited 26 by the Rules of Professional Conduct until 2008, four years after the representation of Alex, that it is impossible for Plaintiffs to demonstrate deliberate indifference on the part of the county. Plaintiffs maintain that the WDA Standards, the Board of County Commissioners Committee recommendations, the ACLU Report, the WSBA Report, the Seattle Times series, and the Best lawsuit should have alerted the County that its policy was inadequate for providing effective indigent defense. The Court having reviewed this evidence finds that there is a genuine dispute of material facts as to whether the County was deliberately indifferent to the plaintiff's constitutional right or was the moving force behind the violation. Accordingly, this is a matter best left for resolution by the jury. Defendant's motion as to the County's liability is denied.

3. County Commissioners

Defendants argue the County Commissioners are entitled to either absolute immunity or qualified immunity.

a. Absolute Immunity

Defendants argue the County Commissioners are entitled to absolute immunity as they were engaged in legislative acts. Legislators "are absolutely immune from liability under § 1983 for their legislative acts." Kaahumanu v. County of Maui, 315 F.3d 1215, 1219 (9th Cir. 2003). There are four factors to apply in deciding whether an act is legislative, "(1) whether the act involves ad hoc decision making, or the formulation of policy; (2) whether the act applies to a few individuals, or the public at large; (3) whether the act is formally legislative in character; and (4) whether it bears all the hallmarks of traditional legislation." Id. at 1220.

1 Here, the Court finds this was not a traditional legislative 2 act. While the policies setting forth the standards for the delivery 3 of legal services to indigent juveniles were set forth in two passed 4 resolutions, 92-115-C and 97-29-CC, the matter at issue is the 5 contract with Anderson. The contract between Commissioners and 6 Anderson carried out the policy embodied in the County resolutions but 7 did not formulate a policy, and was in the form of a contract rather 8 than an ordinance, resolution, or legislation. Additionally, 9 administering contracts is generally an executive function. See 10 Community House, Inc. v. City of Boise, 623 F.3d 945, 960 (9th Cir.
11 2010) (recognizing that "monitoring or administering a municipal 12 contract is generally an executive function."). Accordingly, the 13 County Commissioners were not engaged in a legislative act and 14 therefore do not enjoy the protection of absolute immunity.

15 b. Qualified Immunity

16 Defendants argue the County Commissioners, in their individual 17 capacity, are entitled to qualified immunity. "The doctrine of 18 qualified immunity protects government officials 'from liability for 19 civil damages insofar as their conduct does not violate clearly 20 established state or constitutional rights of which a reasonable 21 person would have known.'" Pearson v. Callahan, 555 U.S. 223, 231 22 (2009) (quoting Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 818 (1982); Staton 23 v. Sims, 134 S.Ct. 3, 5 (2013) ("existing precedent must have placed 24 the statutory or constitutional question beyond debate").

25 Here, in 2000 when the County Commissioners entered into the 26 contract with Anderson that is at issue, and in 2004 when Alex was

1 represented by Anderson, it was not clearly established that 2 maintaining such a system of public defense would violate a person's 3 Sixth Amendment rights. While, as discussed earlier, there is a 4 material issue of whether the County acted with deliberate 5 indifference due to numerous reports and recommendations available to 6 the County, the question of qualified immunity requires the question 7 be beyond debate. See also Estate of Ford v. Ramirez-Palmer, 301 F.3d 8 1043, 1048-1050 (9th Cir. 2002) (recognizing the inquiry into 9 deliberate indifference and qualified immunity are separate). It was 10 not until September 2008 that the Rules of Professional Conduct were 11 amended to prohibit the types of contracts entered into with Anderson.
12 Even in 2010, the Washington Supreme Court specifically refused to 13 hold that such contracts violates a constitutional right, instead only 14 finding that "the contract may be considered as evidence of 15 ineffective assistance of counsel." ANJ, 168 Wash. 2d. at 111-112.
16 While Plaintiffs cite to the decision in Miranda v. Clark County, 319
17 F.3d 465 (9th Cir. 2003), finding the improper allocation of public 18 defense resources constitutes a deprivation of the Sixth Amendment 19 right to effective assistance of counsel, Miranda does not put the 20 County Commissioners on notice that the constitutional question at 21 issue was beyond debate. Accordingly, the Commissioners are entitled 22 to qualified immunity.

23 For the foregoing reasons, Defendants' motion is granted as to 24 qualified immunity and denied as to absolute immunity and Monell
25 liability. Because Plaintiffs' Fifth Claim is therefore dismissed 26 against the County Commissioners, the related Eleventh Claim for

1 concerted action and the derivative Thirteenth Claim for injury to a 2 child, cannot be maintained.
